“Writing is nothing more than a guided dream.”
Jorge Luis Borges

It gives us great pleasure to invite you to attend the First “Jornadas Universitarias de Estudiantes de Lengua Inglesa de Universidades Públicas de la Región Centro” organized by Profesorado en Lengua Inglesa, Universidad Nacional de Villa María, to be held in the city of Villa María on October 9th 2010.

Venue: The UNVM campus (Jauretche 1555, Villa María)

Schedule: 9 am to 6 pm (aprox.)

Renowned professionals in the field of interest will be giving plenary talks.

- Keynote speaker: Dr. Ana María Morra
- A panel of researchers from UNVM, UNRC, and UNC sharing their findings on ESL writing

Students will have a unique opportunity to share their productions with students from peer institutions.

- Simultaneous commissions for participants to read their papers.

These “Jornadas” invite undergraduate students wishing to share their academic productions in the research field, or within the scope of any of the courses they attend at their university.

Papers will focus on the following areas:

- ART (Literature, Visual Arts, other)
- SOCIETY (the environment, politics, education, technology, any other related subjects)
- ELT (new approaches, TICs and ELT, varieties of English, other)

Proposals should comply with the following guidelines:

- ✍ Four-to-five-page paper including bibliography
- ✍ Language: only English

Instructions for writing the paper:

1. Include heading according to the sample provided in the attachment (double-spacing between lines) in the upper- left corner.
2. Each page should have one-inch margins along each side, at the top, and on the bottom. Page numbers should be on every page. Use a half-inch margin (5 spaces).
3. Justify the text on the left margin ONLY.
4. Use in-text parenthetical documentation. Cite your source inside parentheses immediately after a direct quote or end of a sentence (only the author's name and the page number inside the parentheses). If the author is already mentioned in the sentence, then simply cite the page number inside the parentheses.
5. When you want to list those sources you consulted but have not cited in your research paper, simply include the reference page "Works Consulted" after the one entitled "Works Cited."

6. Italicize titles of books and novels, use inverted commas for titles of poems and essays (but not your own).
7. Make sure the quoted text in your essay—if there is any--makes up less than 20 % of the whole text.
8. a. When citing an internet source in your “Works Cited” or “Works Consulted” page, list as much of the following information as possible:
 1. Author’s name
 2. Title of the document
 3. Information about print publication
 4. Information about electronic publication
 5. Access information

Example

Ross, Don. “Game Theory.” 11 Sept. 2001. Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy. Ed. Edward N. Zalta. Fall 2002 ed. Center for the Study of Lang. And Information, Stanford U. 1 Oct. 2002 <http://plato.stanford.edu/entries/game-theory/>.

- b. Often, author and title are not available when researching a certain database. In this case, list:
 1. Title of the site (italicized)
 2. Name of the editor of the site (if given)
 3. Electronic publication information, including version number (if relevant and if not part of the title), date of electronic publication or of the latest update, and name of any sponsoring institution or organization
 4. Date of access and URL (uniform resource locators)

Example

Encyclopaedia Britannica Online. 2002. Encyclopedia Britannica. 15 May 2002 <http://www.britannica.com/>.

- c. When citing an internet source “in-text,” list as little information as possible so that the reader can trace your reference to the “Works Cited” page. You may list the author if it is provided or you may list the title of the article.

Example

John Adams loved his wife Abigail. Once he consoled her in a letter and wrote “We shall yet be happy” (“John Adams”).
